Regarding material events for the month, during the last week of May, the epidemiological alert for the AH1N1 flu virus epidemic was raised, which resulted in the cancellation of flights from Canada, the U.S. and some domestic flights due to low load levels. This resulted in the decline of international and domestic passenger traffic. The decrease in traffic at the Aguascalientes airport, however, was due to the cancellation of the San Marcos Festival, which attracts thousands of tourists to this city each year.

Additionally, the Mexican Federal Aviation Authority suspended Aviacsa's operations due to irregularities in aircraft safety. Aviacsa operates at the airports of Guadalajara, Hermosillo, Puerto Vallarta and Tijuana. As of May 2009, Aviacsa transported 298,011 passengers for the year, 5.9% of domestic passengers and 3.6% of GAP's total passengers.
